Mr. McDonough stated he believes all Cook County Commissioners should be on the job, at the office ready to do work. Mr. McDonough expressed concerns about Commissioner Luis Arroyo holding two government positions and receiving two pensions. He expressed his hopes that the Cook County Board of Ethics will address it.

Albertina Donaldson stated that she works for the Juvenile Temporary Detention Center and that on December 4, 2020 she suffered a workplace injury. Ms. Donaldson alleged that her manager disclosed personal medical information to at least one other manager and colleagues. Ms. Donaldson found this disclosure is egregious and immoral and is asking the Board to hold her manager accountable under Cook County personnel rules 10.4. Chairperson T. Szromba noted that the Board has no jurisdiction over any actions taken that do not implicate or involve the Ethics Ordinance.

Alisa Kaplan, Executive Director of Reform for Illinois expressed that her organization hopes to see real progress on strengthening the Cook County Ethics Ordinance and looks forward to seeing the proposed changes to the Ordinance implemented soon. She further hopes that the Ethics Board will do whatever is necessary to complete the examination of campaign contributions and ensure that no candidate or elected official has received more than the amount legally allowed by the current Ethics Ordinance. Finally, she encouraged the Board to oppose increasing the campaign contribution cap from $750 to $1,500.
David Orr representing Good Government Illinois stated that he hopes that the Board acts expeditiously on passing a strong ethics ordinance. Mr. Orr suggested that for any time period campaign finance reform audits were not able to be conducted, and the Board should go back to those periods and conduct those audits. Finally, he recommended that the Board oppose raising the threshold that elected officials can receive from those who do business with the County.
