

Background

- Affordable Care Act (ACA) regulations require that large employers report information on employer-provided health insurance offers and coverage. The document distributed to employees by employers is Form 1095-C.
- The Form 1095-C provides information about your health coverage during the prior year.
- This form is not required for filing your tax return; it should be kept for your records with your other tax documents.
- Employees are encouraged to read the information on the back/mailing address side of the form while reviewing the form. All information necessary for understanding the content of the form is included in the Instructions for Recipient section.
- Employers are required to distribute Form 1095-C by March 1st of the year following the calendar year to which the statement applies.

Detail

- Cook County is providing a 2023 Form 1095-C to employees that worked, or were hired to work, at least 1,560 hours (130 hours per month) prior to 202 Open Enrollment. This includes employees who may have terminated employment during 2023.
- The County-provided Form 1095-C contains information in Part II—Employee Offer and Coverage—that is not included in the Form 1095-B available from Blue Cross Blue Shield to employees covered by an HMO plan:
 - Line 14: This line includes codes to describe the coverage that was offered to the employee.
 - Line 15: This line reports the employee share of the lowest-cost monthly premium for employee-only minimum essential coverage. This is not the same rate deducted for a specific employee each pay period.
 - Line 16: For applicable health plans, this line includes a code to provide the IRS information to administer the employer shared responsibility provisions. For more information about the employer shared responsibility provisions, see <https://www.irs.gov>.
- Only employees who had PPO coverage for any month during 2023 will have any information listed in Form 1095-C Part III—Covered Individuals.

Questions

- Employees are encouraged to read the information on the back/ mailing address side of the form while reviewing the form. All information necessary for understanding the content of the form is included in the Instructions for Recipient section.
- Any employee that believes their form contains incorrect information, or did not receive a form when they should have, must submit a written request to the Department of Risk Management via email to risk.mgmt@cookcountyil.gov or via fax to 866-729-3040 to request a new form. If the form is believed to contain an error, the specific error should be documented as well as the correct information. The written request should include the employee number, a daytime phone number and an email address.
- Risk Management will return messages if additional clarification is necessary beyond the information in the Instructions for Recipient section of the form. Questions about the tax implications of the information contained on Form 1095-C should be directed to a tax professional.
