Losing a pet can be both stressful and traumatic for you and your pet. Here are a few tips to take some of the stress out of what to do next

- Contact local Animal Control Agencies and Animal Shelters, Veterinary clinics, hospitals and Police departments and Rescue groups.
- Search your neighborhood, check your local park or playground
- Post notices at your local grocery store, library, pet supply stores, veterinary offices (inquire if any lost injured pets have been treated recently), street intersections and community centers. Make sure your notice has a photo of your pet with descriptive information, such as, breed, color, weight/size. Consider advertising with radio and print media, as part of your search efforts. If you receive calls, ask the caller to provide a description, only you will know of any unusual markings on your pet. Not everyone is honest and may try and request money for the return of your pet, if no identifying (only you know) is provided the caller most likely does not have your lost pet. Be sure to meet at a safe place when reuniting with your pet.
